
ACADEMIC ELIGIBILITY POLICY

In order to participate in school activities a student needs to be achieving a minimum of a D+ in each of his/her classes. Students become ineligible for participation according to the following system:

At the beginning of each week, teachers will report to the principal and athletic director the name of any student who is performing at a D or lower. At this point the student becomes ineligible for extracurricular activities. The student is restricted from practices and games for a minimum of one week or until all grades reach a D+ or higher.

The classroom teacher or principal will notify the student and parents of ineligibility. The athletic director will notify the head coach when a student becomes ineligible.

Students who have a D or lower at the end of each quarter will become ineligible for a period of two weeks at the beginning of the next quarter.

At the start of a quarter there is a short grace period for any eligible students. The grace period will extend for two weeks or until at least five scores are recorded for a particular subject.
